

Seal or Sea Lion?

Seals and sea lions belong to a group of marine mammals called pinnipeds. The word pinniped means "winged" or "feather-footed." Even though they look similar, they are separate marine mammals. Color the pictures below of a sea lion and seal. Circle the differences you see, then complete the answers below:

- 1) Sea lions have _____ on the outside of their heads, but seals do not.
- 2) Seals use their _____ flippers for swimming fast, and their _____ flippers for steering.
- 3) Sea lions use their _____ flippers for swimming fast, and their _____ flippers for steering.

Label each picture as either a seal or a sea lion.
